Rõude Museum is situated in Rõude village, at 32 kilometres on Haapsalu-Laiküla Road, in a building originally built for the local elementary school and kindergarten.

They started to gather the exposition in 2005 in Sepa, Laose and Uuetoa farms. Later, many further exhibits were collected from several farms of Martna municipality. The collection includes antique items, photos, technical tools and handicraft with a part of the exposition dedicated to the former Kasari collective farm. We organise handicraft promotion workshops, take part in the annual Night of Museums, "Let's Do It" community maintenance activities and various handicraft workshops all over Estonia and also organise interesting events ourselves. In addition to the NGO members, also the residents of the area participate in the museum activities. The expositions provide an overview of the former life led in Martna parish and villages around Rõude. Visitors of the museum can weave and knit textile, use a ball winder and wrap reel. There is also a lottery and handicraft stall.
